The Buckeyes cracked the final group alongside Clemson, Georgia, home-state Miami and Texas A&M, the latter two of which are considered Ohio State's primary competition for the five-star, per 247Sports' Andrew Ivins.

"While most blue-chip recruits try to claim that everyone inside their top five is running even, Stewart and those inside his camp have relayed that Texas A&M, Ohio State and Miami are the front runners at the moment with the Aggies holding a slight edge."

Stewart is considered the No. 8 player and No. 3 defensive lineman in the 247Sports composite, and checks in even at the No. 4 spot nationally in the 247Sports in-house rankings.

He's planning to take official visits to at least Ohio State and Texas A&M this fall and will likely add more to the list as the season approaches.
