

63 Former Ohio State Players Begin 2019 NFL Season On Training Camp Rosters

According to Ohio State sports information director Jerry Emig, 62 former Buckeyes were on an NFL roster at the beginning of training camp this month.

Emig left off former Ohio State defensive end Noah Spence but mentioned running back Rod Smith, though both of their careers in Columbus ended because of a failed drug test. The only difference is that Spence was ruled ineligible by the Big Ten and finished his career at Eastern Kentucky, while Smith was a senior at the time of his indiscretion.

With Spence on the list, the Buckeyes are represented on 29 teams. A complete list:

Arizona Cardinals

LB Dante Booker

Atlanta Falcons

DT Michael Bennett

CB Kendall Sheffield

Buffalo Bills

S Kurt Coleman

Carolina Panthers

TE Marcus Baugh

WR Curtis Samuel

Cincinnati Bengals

DE Sam Hubbard

OG Michael Jordan

C Billy Price

LB Chris Worley

Cleveland Browns

CB Denzel Ward

Dallas Cowboys

WR Noah Brown
RB Ezekiel Elliott
WR Devin Smith
RB Mike Weber

Denver Broncos

TE Jeff Heurman
DT Dre'mont Jones

Detroit Lions

OT Taylor Decker

Green Bay Packers

C Corey Linsley

Houston Texans

WR Johnnie Dixon
S Tyvis Powell
CB Bradley Roby
OG Malcolm Pridgeon

Indianapolis Colts

WR Parris Campbell
S Malik Hooker
DE Tyquan Lewis

Jacksonville Jaguars

OG Andrew Norwell
WR Terrelle Pryor

Kansas City Chiefs

RB Carlos Hyde
LB Darron Lee

Los Angeles Chargers

DE Joey Bosa
QB Cardale Jones

Los Angeles Rams

LS Jake McQuaide

Miami Dolphins

LB Jerome Baker
LB Raekwon McMillan
OT Isaiah Prince
DT Adolphus Washington

Minnesota Vikings

OG Pat Elflein
DT Jalyn Holmes

New England Patriots

S Nate Ebner
DE John Simon

New Orleans Saints

CB Eli Apple
QB J.T. Barrett
S Vonn Bell
WR Ted Ginn Jr.
CB Marshon Lattimore
WR Michael Thomas

New York Giants

RB Rod Smith

Oakland Raiders

CB Gareon Conley
DT Jonathan Hankins

Philadelphia Eagles

S Malcolm Jenkins
P Cameron Johnston
WR Braxton Miller

Pittsburgh Steelers

DE Cameron Heyward
LB Ryan Shazier

San Francisco 49ers

DE Nick Bosa

Seattle Seahawks

OT Jamarco Jones
OG Demetrius Knox
TE Nick Vannett

Tennessee Titans

S Damon Webb

Washington Redskins

QB Dwayne Haskins
WR Terry McLaurin

That leaves just three teams — the Baltimore Ravens, Chicago Bears, New York Jets — without a former Ohio State player on the training roster.

The 2019 NFL season — unofficially — begins on Thursday when the Atlanta Falcons and Denver Broncos square off in the Hall of Fame Game in Canton. The remaining teams begin their four-game exhibition slate the following weekend.