

Big Ten Announces Full Conference Slate For 2023-24 Women's Basketball Season

The Big Ten announced on Thursday the full slate of conference opponents for every women's basketball team for the upcoming 2023-24 season.

Our conference opponents are set! #GoBucks pic.twitter.com/Ps05JO6wDI

— Ohio State WBB (@OhioStateWBB) June 22, 2023

Ohio State will play home-and-away series against Iowa, Maryland, Michigan, Michigan State and Penn State while hosting Nebraska, Rutgers, Wisconsin and Indiana, and traveling to play Illinois, Purdue, Northwestern and Minnesota. The Buckeyes finished fourth in the conference last season, posting a 12-6 record in Big Ten play and a 31-7 record overall, making the team's first run to the Elite Eight since 1993.

Dates and times for these games, as well as Ohio State's full non-conference slate, will be announced later this summer. It was already revealed on Wednesday that the Buckeyes will open the season on Nov. 6 against USC at T-Mobile Arena in Paradise, Nev.