

Buckeyes Release New Gray Alternate Uniforms

Ohio State unveiled a new all-gray alternate uniform on Friday that is set to be worn for the team's primetime matchup against Michigan State on Nov. 11.

██████████████ ███ ██████████ █

11.11.23 pic.twitter.com/8qtQpUERUD

— Ohio State Football (@OhioStateFB) July 21, 2023

This marks the fifth time in eight seasons in which the Buckeyes will don alternate threads. The team wore all-black uniforms in 2022, 2019, 2018, and 2015 against Wisconsin, Michigan State, Nebraska, and Penn State, respectively, while they played in all-red uniforms in 2021 against the Nittany Lions.

The new Buckeye alternates caused a stir amongst the fan base throughout the week, as the team teased the all-gray combination on multiple social media platforms. The excitement even trickled down to the coaching staff, including offensive program assistant Devin Jordan.

I think I got one more game of eligibility left to rock these ██████ #GoBucks
<https://t.co/OpVjv4ijUD>

— Devin Jordan (@CoachJordan82) July 21, 2023

Ohio State's Nov. 11 matchup with the Spartans will kick off at Ohio Stadium at 7:30 p.m., airing on NBC.