

Linebacker Malik Harrison Leads Ohio State Contingent With Interception In Senior Bowl

Five former Ohio State players participated in the 2020 Senior Bowl on Saturday afternoon to varying results.

Linebacker Malik Harrison intercepted a pass from former Oklahoma quarterback Jalen Hurts in the second quarter, helping the North to a 34-17 win over the South at Ladd-Peebles Stadium in Mobile, Alabama.

The North get the ball right back thanks to Malik Harrison (@OhioStateFB)!

📷: @seniorbowl on NFL Network pic.twitter.com/q8Ge7w2cMi

— NFL Network (@nflnetwork) January 25, 2020

Defensive tackle DaVon Hamilton also started for the North, adding a half sack and several quarterback pressures.

Offensive guard Jonah Jackson, meanwhile, entered the game in the second quarter. He made a key block on his first play to spring former TCU running back Darius Anderson for a 75-yard touchdown.

Darius Anderson (@TCUFootball) to the 🏈 for the North!

📷: @seniorbowl on NFL Network pic.twitter.com/odR1hDh8j1

— NFL Network (@nflnetwork) January 25, 2020

Wide receiver K.J. Hill — who was widely considered one of the top performers in practice throughout the week — did not have much of an impact in the game, though he did record an 18-yard punt return for the North.

Fellow wideout Austin Mack was the lone Buckeye on the South, and he hauled in one pass for 14 yards to convert a fourth-down attempt in the fourth quarter.