

Marvin Harrison Jr. Finishes Fourth In Heisman Voting

When the 2023 Heisman Trophy winner was announced Saturday on ESPN, Ohio State wide receiver Marvin Harrison Jr. finished fourth in the voting receiving 20 first-place votes.

Jayden Daniels, a quarterback from LSU, won the award after a season in which he threw for 3,812 yards and 40 touchdowns and ran for another 1,134 yards and 10 touchdowns on the ground.

Behind Daniels were Washington's Michael Penix Jr. in second and Oregon's Bo Nix in third, both quarterbacks who finished ahead of Harrison.

Harrison is the fifth Ohio State player to be a finalist in the past six years joining quarterbacks Dwayne Haskins, Justin Fields, C.J. Stroud (twice) and defensive end Chase Young. Harrison's fourth-place finish is the highest ever for an Ohio State wide receiver.

Earlier this week Harrison was named the winner of the Biletnikoff Award and Big Ten Offensive Player of the Year, adding to a resume that makes him one of the best wide receivers to come through Ohio State even if he declares for the draft
