

Ohio State Favored Over Toledo By Wide Margin

For the second time in as many weeks, Ohio State will enter its Saturday matchup as an overwhelming favorite.

The Buckeyes open the week as 31.5-point favorites over Toledo, according to the DraftKings Sportsbook. Ohio State is coming off of a week in which it failed to cover the massive 44-point spread against Arkansas State.

Through two weeks this season, Ohio State is 0-2 against the spread — including the Buckeyes' 21-10 win over then-No. 5 Notre Dame on Sept. 3, in which they were favored by 17 points.

The Rockets are 2-0 this season with wins over Long Island University and Massachusetts, winning their two games by a combined score of 92-10. Toledo is 1-1 against the spread after covering the 28-point spread against the Minutemen.

Ohio State and Toledo kick off from Ohio Stadium at 7 p.m. on Saturday. The game will be televised on FOX.