

Ohio State To Play Duke In Big Ten/ACC Challenge For Second Straight Year

After knocking off then-No. 1 Duke in the Big Ten/ACC Challenge last season, Ohio State will have the opportunity to take down the Blue Devils in back-to-back seasons — one year to the day it knocked them off last season.

This time, the Buckeyes will travel to Cameron Indoor Stadium as part of the 2022 Big Ten/ACC Challenge on Nov. 30. This will be Ohio State's fifth game against the Blue Devils in the Big Ten/ACC Challenge, sporting a 2-2 record — including last season's 71-66 triumph on Nov. 30, 2021.

Outside of just the Big Ten/ACC Challenge, the Buckeyes and Blue Devils have met eight times altogether with each team taking four wins.

Since the Big Ten/ACC Challenge was introduced in 1999, the Buckeyes have amassed a 9-11 record in the event, but have won their last three games — taking down then-No. 7 North Carolina in 2019, Notre Dame in 2020 and then-No. 1 Duke last season.

The game will be played on either ESPN, ESPN2 or ESPNU with the tip-off time to be announced at a later date.
