

Ohio State's Final Home Game Against Minnesota To Kick Off At 4 p.m. On Big Ten Network

The Big Ten announced Saturday that Ohio State's home finale next week against Minnesota will kick off at 4 p.m., and will be broadcast on the Big Ten Network.

This will include Senior Day festivities for the Buckeyes, who are hoping to finish the season with an undefeated 6-0 home record, assuming Ohio State gets past Michigan State and is able to take care of business against the Gophers, who will be either 6-4 or 5-5 depending on how their game on Saturday against Purdue finishes.

Ohio State now knows kickoff times and networks for every game left in the regular season, as it had already been announced that the Buckeyes will kick off at Michigan on Nov. 25 at 12 p.m. on FOX. Should the Buckeyes make it to the Big Ten Championship Game, that has also been announced as an 8 p.m. kick on FOX.

The Buckeyes hold a 46-7 record against the Gophers, and have won the last 11 games dating back to 2001, with the last loss coming in Columbus - a 29-17 defeat - on Oct. 14, 2000.
