Lennon is the second tight end in the class along with Washington, Okla., four-star Nate Roberts (6-4, 235), who committed to the Buckeyes in April. It's the second straight season that Ohio State will have a class with two tight ends after signing Damorion Witten and Max LeBlanc in the 2024 class.

Lennon is the No. 608 overall player in the country, the 30th-best tight end and the No. 22 overall player in the state of Ohio, according to 247Sports composite ranking.

The Buckeyes beat out Missouri, Pitt, Kentucky and Wisconsin in his recruitment after offering him two weeks ago on June 13 when he attended one of Ohio State's one-day camps and impressed Keenan Bailey.
